

WRITE ON YOUR WALLS

Creative Team Paint transforms any wall into a dry erase canvas, giving you the space you need to create and develop your Next Big Thing.

This exist for one reason: to improve the way people work.

It was born from this very notion, a frustration with the way unique ideas were shared and coworkers collaborated. How can you think big when you write small? How can you think on your feet when you're sitting on your hands? How can you harness the collective intelligence when it's awkward to share what's inside your own head?

We could see the drawing and writing on the wall.

Eureka Exploration leads to discovery. To think and push and prod and poke and make mistakes and make progress and then erase it all and start all over again.

Creative Team Paint is more than a tool. We enable off-site thinking on site. Day in, day out. It's a catalyst for working better.

The essential element for a company to survive is that it must always stay on the verge of the
